CLINICAL APPLICATIONS AND INNOVATIVE APPROACHES

ETW01: Simulation Scenarios

Date: Thursday 16 Feb 2022

Time: 18:00 -20:00

Venue: Virtual, Live

Coordinator: Dr. Ayman Awadh

Workshop Faculty: Dr. Suzan Kardong-Edgren

Target Audience: all health professions novice or intermediate who want to practice writing a scenario using a template

Max # of participants: 20

Prerequisites: Willing to work in a group to practice writing a scenario.

Workshop Description:

After viewing a video of a multidisciplinary healthcare scenario, learners will analyze various templates and how a template is structured for scenario writing. Attendees will then split into teams, decide on a scenario template, and write a basic scenario as a team. Each team will then present their scenario to the group and discuss how their selected template influenced their planning and writing process.

Learning Objectives:

1. Analyze the various parts of a scenario and how these parts are depicted in a variety of templates.
2. Write a scenario using a template as a planning guide, in small groups.
3. Present their scenarios to the groups.
4. Discuss how the use of a selected template shaped the planning and writing experience.
